Description

Interesting tidbit about Cromarty Scotland. One of the most famous persons from there is Hugh Miller, one of the founding fathers of Geology. Is it not cool that this lot on Cromarty is the same name of birthplace of such an innovative person? Now's your chance to be innovative with this lot. Lots of trees, almost a half acre, slight slope but another great part for now there are no neighbors. You can build your dream home on this lot and and do your own digs searching for old deer and squirrel fossils. Perhaps, there is an old dinosuar fossil too, you never know. Now is the time to get in the car and head to this lot and dream about your future home. This lot is also a short walk to Loch Lomond. Can you dig it?
